Watch a lot of TV. Cause I only work seven minutes a day, and its usually at night, right here. Would you agree that there are way too many reality shows on TV? Everyone's got a TV show. Flavor Flav, who deserves one. Mike Tyson probably should get one. But there is this one show called, Catching up with the Kardashians. Have you seen this shit? I have no idea who these women are or why they have there own show. I watched five minutes of this shit and came to the conclusion that if this show was on BET, it would be called: White Chicks with Big Asses.

I hear they eat dogs in Vietnam. And I know what your thinking at last someone found a purpose for these animals. While I am an animal lover, I hate dogs. They are the whores of the animal kingdom. They'll hump anyone in the room. They crap where ever they feel like. They stink, eat your trash. You might as well have a homeless man living in your house. Yet you feel compelled to rub a strange dog's bellies. You wouldn't just walk up to a homeless guy and start jerking him off would ya? Hey that's my time. Good night and God Bless.
